board has tended to encourage active participation in the affairs of the state. On that day the result on the legislative ticket in any one of the doubtful counties of this state may determine which shall control the next assembly, the same as the people.

But these daily messages from the students themselves, and they are being written by the students, and printed almost as they come to us, will give us a knowledge of what is going on in the high school, and a point of view toward what is needed that will prove valuable. We recommend that you read the high school notes.

The Herald would like to speak again to the civic department of to Women's clubs and to other organizations similarly engaged, that a great work may be done for the improvement of Albuquerque by a crusade which will encourage improvement and beautifying of lawns and home grounds in this city.

THE GANG OR THE PEOPLE.

A TENTION was called by the Herald a few days ago to the probability of election to the legislature from San Miguel county of Secundino Romero, a first lieutenant of the old standard state militia who, by the way, is running on a platform adopted by his countrymen which pleases Romero to continue Republican policies pursued in San Miguel county to the last. It was stated that in the unfortunate event of the election of a representative to the house, Romero, if not the speaker, would be one of the house. This statement has not been denied and will not be because should they win a majority of the legislature the Republican bosses of the state will use Romero as their active manager.

But Romero will not be the only member of the next house who stands high in the councils of the state. He will have a number of able representatives who are running in strongly Republican counties, and whose election is probable unless a political candidate should enter. In running down the list of Republican candidates it is found that a two-thirds majority of them are men who have been actively identified with the work of the state in spite of their districts in the past; men who can be relied upon absolutely to do what the machine tells them to do.

Prominent in the list is Mathias Martinez of Taos county. Martinez has a strong personal organization in his home county, which is strongly Democratic. He will probably be elected should a straggler now left in the house be ousted by the machine. Martinez will be one of the most influential members of that body, next probably in importance to Romero.

IN VIEW OF THE WELL-KNOWN PUBLIC RECORDS OF THESE MEN, IN VIEW OF THEIR WHOLE POLITICAL HISTORY IN STATE AND COUNTY, IN VIEW OF THEIR PRESENT RELATIONS AND OBLIGATIONS, WHAT IS THE ANSWER TO THESE QUESTIONS?

THIS IS YOUR BUSINESS,

MR. TAXPAYER. YOUR POCKETBOOKS AND YOUR PROSPERITY ARE DIRECTLY CONCERNED.

In a recent speech now being distributed throughout the state in pamphlet form by the Progressive organization, Col. George W. Prichard says that "The Republicans of the west do not know what their West side Democratic race team has not destroyed the principles of grain and honest." Reading this, no responsible statement we have anywhere to rest the rest of the argument after which we respectfully rise to inquire if Col. Prichard knows what he wants, but if so, why he fails to state it in the course of his thousand or more words.

GETTING ACQUAINTED.

PHILS of the Albuquerque high school at the induction of Mr. Gilmer the superintendant are attending to the daily news papers each day after school about events, papers, work, the everyday life of the school now scattered in its beautiful new home. The Herald was especially glad to learn to add to this induction for a number of reasons. The least of these is that it may aid in encouraging and developing the reporting, or newsletters of literary ability of some of the youthful reporters, we say the least, because we do not believe our young person should be unduly encouraged to enter a newspaper career, there being certain disadvantages to such a career which those of us who have entered the field fully understand.

Our chief reason for desiring in this plan of Mr. Gilmer is in the fact that these items, if continued persistently, will tend to bring Albuquerque growing into closer touch with the high school and its activities; and this, we believe, is also Mr. Gilmer's chief aim. We know we have a beautiful, modern high school building and we are very proud of it, while we grumble somewhat at the taxes we have to pay and for which it is partly responsible. But very few of us, even those of us who have children in the school, take that active, personal interest in what it is doing and trying to do and actually accomplishing in results; which would do more than anything else to encourage earnest, enthusiastic work throughout the organization.

Under the present city whom management we believe Albuquerque people have come closer to and have taken a more active interest in their schools than ever before. There has been notable advance in the kind of work being done; the establishment of the night school, now soon to begin again, has aroused interest, and the general policy of the school

A PETROGRAD dispatch describes the December 1st Wilson as precipitate, but they forgot their food supplies. Which is probably true and citizens were in a hurry.

THEN and NOW

Fifty years ago, in the latter part of October 1864, the first link in a transcontinental railroad, was completed, from Sacramento, California into the foothills of the Sierra Nevada mountains. T. H. Judah, a civil engineer, after threading the mountains for months and pleading in vain with capitalists to back him, met his share at Sacramento on day, four small men—household tools, Mark Huntington, Edward Stanford, Mark Hopkins and Charles Crocker, out of that incident meeting grew the organization of the Central Pacific railway.

Wilson died before his project was well under way, but the other four men, with a capital sum of only a few thousand dollars and a few incendiaries, succeeded, and came to the mouth of the mountains in the fall of '64. By 1867 the Stevens were circumnavigated, largely by the labor of Chinese coolies brought by the shipload from China, and in 1869 the road was joined with the Union Pacific at Promontory Point, Utah. The first transcontinental railroad was completed in 1869.
